Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/04/08 : CIA-RDP81-00280R000100020013-8 50X1-HUM

-ქისსტა.

		44411114
 	- SEE BOTTOM OF PAGE FOR ADDITIONAL SPECIA
	INFORMATION REPORT	This material contains information affecting the National Defense of the United States within the meaning of the Espianage Laws, Title 18, U.S. C
PREP	ARED AND DISSEMINATED BY	Secs. 793 and 794, the transmission or revolution of which in any manner to an unauthorised per
	CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY	or which is any manney to an undamorned per
COUNTR	USSR	-
SUBJEC	Total Crew Membership of Certain Soviet Mer- chant Vessels/Medical Facilities/Disease Con- trol/Drunkenness and Venereal Disease	NO. OF PAGES NO
	THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMA	TION
1.	The total crew on the SS "Stalin", SS "Sergo", a "Stalin", 51 men on the "Sergo" and 51 men on th follows:	e "Tuapse". The breakdown is as
	(a) 15 officers, namely Captain, Pompolit, 1st mate, chief engineer, 2nd engineer, 3rd eng tor, doctor, electrical engineer, bookkeepe (b) Seven rated and the rest non-rated seamen.	ineer, 4th engineer, radio opera
2.	There was an infirmary on each of these ships. was equipped with regular medical equipment exceatus.
3.	These ships had only one doctor, either male or	female, but no nurses.
4.	Medical examination of merchant marine recruits out very thoroughly. Regular medical checks are year. This examination includes: blood test, useyes, ears, throat, teeth, also tapping of knee that is all.	made after that once every rinalysis, bowels, chest X-ray
5.	Periodic physical examination of the area is carried above.	ried on once every year. It is 50X1-HUM
6.
7.	On shore-leave, much drinking is done in the Merc some excessively. On board there is no alcohol a al wine and nobody eares for it because it is to	available, except Southern natur-
8.	There was some incidence of VD in the Marchant Mar II, but after that it fell off considerably dence today. Sailors on duty abroad have no castrict controls prevent them from contact with for group remain together while ashere and one of the No crew member is authorized shore-leave overnighthe ship in an intoxicated condition, he is reprised to the constant of the	and there is very little inci- asion to eateh VD, because very preign women (three men in a em is responsible for the rest). at. When a sailor returns to
9.	The miserable living conditions in the USSR are a balanced food. Other things contribute also to a instance, poor quality clothing, poor quality for	make life miserable there, for otwear, crowded and inadequate
	CO-N-F-I-D-E-N-T-I-A-L DISTRIBUTION
- 5	TATE ARMY NAVY AIR FR

apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite sountries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to his ship in a fairly sober condition. If he does return to his ship in	Sanitize	d Copy Approved for Release 2011/04/08 : CIA-RDP81-00280R000100020013-8	50X1-HUM is called: Kombinirovannyy Ukol Zombination shoi/. 12. There is a Politkinik serving the Marchant Marine on Primorskiy Bulvard in Odessa. It is a three- story brick building. It her no beds, only offices staffed with medical specialists for consultation. This Politkinik is located on Komsonolskaya Ulitas, in a suburb of Mikolayev. It is a chree- story brick building, and also is very well equipmed. 13. The folklinik is located on Komsonolskaya Ulitas, in a suburb of Mikolayev. It is a chree- story brick building and also is very well equipmed. 14. Sox "Maganca - Eight officers, 13 mailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward (b) SS "Maganca" - Eight officers, 13 mailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward (b) SS "Majanit" - Eight officers, 13 mailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one attend. (d) SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop", SS "Mapage", each has a total crew of 50 men. They are: 16 officers, 14 motorists, 14 saliors, 15 motorists, one cook, one attend (officers), one expenter, one donkeyman. 14. There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine chest equipped with first atia decideal supplies in charge of the First Mate. The SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other sadical personner. Operations requiring A-ray taken off the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, carry few-le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant varies recruits was very thorough. It included a chest K-ray, sardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special e			_
It is a three-story brick building. It her no beds, only offices staffed with medical specialists for consultation. This Foliklinik is located on Komsomolskaya Ultima, in a suburb of Nikolayev also. This Foliklinik is located on Komsomolskaya Ultima, in a suburb of Nikolayev. It is a one-story brick building and also is very well equipped. 50X1-HUM 50X1-HUM 13. The Collowing is a breakdown of crew members of certain Soviet vessels: (a) SS "Magnom - Eight officers, 13 asliors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward. (b) SS "Simjuil" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward. (c) SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop", SS "Tuapse", each has a total crew of 50 men. They are: 16 officers, 12 motorists, 14 sailors, 1 wo cooks, one steward (crew), one steward (officers), one carpenter, one donkeyann. 14. There was no infirmry and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine cheat equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the first late. The SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Nuapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendetomics, etc, are not made on board; all complicated eases are taken off the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry fer-le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant warine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest X-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to be and was t		five diseases. In Russian this	inoculation
13. The following is a breakdown of crew members of certain Soviet vessels: (a) SS "Magnama - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one sook, one steward. (b) SS "Chigult" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one sook, one steward. (c) SS "Stailin", SS "Mayor", SS "Mapse", each has a total crew of 50 wen. They are: 16 officers, 14 motorists, 14 sailors, two cooks, one steward (crew), one steward (officers), one earpenter, one donkyman. 14. There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine cheat equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the First Mate. The SS "Stailin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Mapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendectomies, etc., are not made on board; all complicated cases are taken of the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stallin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry fer-le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant marine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest K-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spread	12.	It is a three- story brick building. It has no beds, only offices staffed with medical specialists for consultation a Poliklinik in Nikolayev also. This Poliklinik is located on Komsomolskaya Ulitsa, in a suburb of Nikolayev. It is a one-story brick building and also is very well equipped.
13. The following is a breakdown of crew members of certain Soviet vessels: (a) SS "Magnama - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one sook, one steward. (b) SS "Chigult" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one sook, one steward. (c) SS "Stailin", SS "Mayor", SS "Mapse", each has a total crew of 50 wen. They are: 16 officers, 14 motorists, 14 sailors, two cooks, one steward (crew), one steward (officers), one earpenter, one donkyman. 14. There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine cheat equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the First Mate. The SS "Stailin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Mapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendectomies, etc., are not made on board; all complicated cases are taken of the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stallin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry fer-le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant marine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest K-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spread			50X1-HUM
(b) SS "Zhiguli" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward.  SS "Mangishlak" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward. (d) SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop", SS "Tuapse", each has a total crew of 50 men. They are: 16 officers, 14 motorists, 14 sailors, two cooks, one steward (crew), one steward (officers), one carpenter, one donkeyman. 14. There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine chest equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the first late. The SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendectomics, etc., are not made on board; all complicated cases are taken off the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry fer le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by ecompetent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant warine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest k-ray, cardiograph, eye and car examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to too and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limit	13.	The following is a breakdown of crew members of certain Soviet vessels:	00/(1110141
14. There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine chest equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the First Mate. The SS "Stalin", SS "Makyop" and SS "Unspape" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendectomics, etc, are not made on board; all complicated cases are taken off the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest distance from the ship. 15. Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stalin", SS "Makyop" and SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, carry ferile doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant marine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest X-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleve only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants,		 (b) SS "Zhiguli" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward. a) SS "Mangishlak" - Eight officers, 13 sailors, 13 motorists, one cook, one steward. (d) SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop", SS "Tuapse", each has a total crew of 50 men. They are: 16 officers, 14 motorists, 14 sailors, two cooks, one steward (crew),
SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry few-le doctors. 16. On vessels which did not have an infirmary, injuries which were not serious were treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant marine recruits was very thorough. It included a shest K-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three-man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite sountries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to him ship in a fairly scher condition. If he	14.	There was no infirmary and no doctors on the vessels designated under (a),(b),(c) above. There was a medicine chest equipped with first aid medical supplies in charge of the First Mate. The SS "Stalin", SS "Maykop" and SS "Tuapse" have a small infirmary which accommodates five or six men. It is well equipped and is staffed by one doctor but no other medical personnel. Operations requiring X-ray diagnosis, appendectomies, etc, are not made on board; all complicated eases are taken off the ship and transferred to a hospital located in a port at the shortest treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed of by transfer of the patient to a hospital. 17. Medical examination of merchant marine recruits was very thorough. It included a chest X-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe. and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Sesides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three-man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite zountries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to his ship in a fairly sober condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimand and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. 22. Lack of vit	15.	Only one doctor was employed in the infirmary of the SS "Stalin", SS "Me SS "Tuapse" and he was a male doctor. Some ships, however, earry femble	ykop" and doctors.
ehest K-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe and was thorough. 18. A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a year. 19. Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. 20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the mai in question returns to him ship in a fairly scoler condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimand and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. 22. Lack of vitamins and lack of meat, fats, sugar, etc, has a definite effect on the staie of health of the Soviet population.	16,	treated by competent officer personnel; serious injuries and diseases were disposed
 Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the mai in question returns to him ship in a fairly scher condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimend and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. lack of vitamins and lack of meat, fats, sugar, etc, has a definite effect on the state of health of the Soviet population. 	17.	chest X-ray, cardiograph, eye and ear examination. Special emphasis was laid on good eyesight and hearing but the examination covered everything from head to toe.
20. Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew. 21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while asbore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to his ship in a fairly scher condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimend and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. 22. Lack of vitamins and lack of meat, fats, sugar, etc has a definite effect on the state of health of the Soviet population. 50X1-HUM	18.	A very thorough physical examination of the crew was carried on once a	rear.
21. In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to his ship in a fairly scher condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimand and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. 22. Lack of vitamins and lack of meat, fats, sugar, etc has a definite effect on the state of health of the Soviet population. 50X1-HUM For trips	19.	Venereal diseases are not widespread among the crew.
to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of dissipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the mair in question returns to hip ship in a fairly scher condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimend and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line. 22. Lack of vitamins and lack of meat, fats, sugar, etc has a definite effect on the state of health of the Soviet population. For trips	20.	Excessive drinking is indeed widespread among the crew.
state of health of the Soviet population. 50X1-HUM For trips		In case of infection with VD, a crew member is immediately isolated and transferred to a hospital for treatment in order to insure against spreading of the infection. When travelling outside of the geographical limits of the Soviet Union, and reaching ports in foreign countries, members of the crew are authorized shoreleave only on certain conditions. First of all, when going ashore, they must leave the ship in a group of three men and must stay together as a group until they return to their ship. Besides, they are forbidden while ashore, to visit public establishments of any kind, restaurants, bars, theatres, etc. All they are able to do is to walk the streets. The idea of the three man-group is to hold one of the three responsible for the actions of the other two and report any breaches of discipline on their return to the ship. On trips to Satellite countries, such strict rules do not apply and members of the crew, when given shore leave, may visit any place they wish. They may do the same in all Soviet ports also, but outside of these and ports in Satellite countries, any violations of rules are severely punished. Getting drunk while ashore is not considered an offense as long as the man in question returns to his ship in a fairly scher condition. If he does return to his ship in an intoxicated condition he is given a severe reprimend and if this happens repeatedly he is fired from the shipping line.
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·		state of health of the Soviet population.	50X1-HUM
	2.1.		trips

50X1-HUM

Sanitize	d Copy Approved for Release 2011/04/08 : CIA-RDP81-00280R000100020013-8	50X1-HUM
24.	to the tropics, crew members are also inoculated against dysentery
25.	policinics generally do not provide beds; the most some have eight-10 beds. People usually go there to check the rate	at of

- end -

C-O N-F-I-D E-N-T-I-A-L